Acceptance of Mural themed Past, Present, and Future entitled Eastvale: We Built This City

Prepared By:

Recommended Action(s)

Staff recommends that the City Council accept the mural painted by Rosemary Vasquez Tuthill, themed Past, Present, and Future entitled Eastvale: We Built This City.

Summary

In honor of the City's 10th Anniversary of incorporation and to help launch the City's up and coming art and culture scene, the City Council commissioned a mural themed, Past, Present, and Future in January 2019 and later entitled Eastvale: We Built This City. The City contracted with 2nd generation muralist and Eastvale resident, Rosemary Vasquez-Tuthill to create the mural. Rosemary is the daughter of famed Chicano artist Emigdio Vasquez, who created a similar mural for the City of Anaheim.

The 6' x 14' mural was painted on a portable canvas so it could be transported if needed. Currently, the mural will be displayed in the City Council Chamber and eventually moved into the City's future Civic Center. The City will also be sharing a behind-the-scenes video about the mural during the unveiling and eventually on our social media platforms.

Background

Originally commissioned by the City Council on January 2019, the mural took a year and a half to complete, which included countless hours of research about the City, attention to detail, and hundreds of days and hours painting the mural.

During this time, Rosemary also painted and donated a print of Rose Parks as one of her Portraits of Influence paintings to Corona-Norco Unified School District Rosa Park Elementary School. Her "Portraits of Influence" painting series features paintings of notable individuals who have made contributions that have influenced culture and affected society in areas including politics, science, music, art, technology, sports, social justice, and other areas.

The City Council established a Art Mural Ad-Hoc Committee that assisted with the design of the mural.
